PROMOTING AND APPLYING THE ACDI/VOCA GENDER THEORY OF CHANGE

Achieving gender equality and female empowerment are core development objectives and key to effective and sustainable outcomes. ACDI/VOCA believes that gender equality is part of its vision that people — both women and men — are empowered to succeed in the global economy. Further, closing gender inequality gaps and responding to the gender dynamics of a development context is part of doing effective and efficient development.

Therefore, ACDI/VOCA is committed to implementing gender equitable approaches in all aspects of its programs and operations as a means towards achieving greater gender equality. This means that ACDI/VOCA often must focus specific attention, processes and resources in its programs to ensure that women — and men, in contexts where they are marginalized — are fully able to engage in development activities and benefits.

ACDI/VOCA’s GenderFirst approach is based on the theory of change that when women and men have equal opportunities and resources, societies are more likely to thrive.

GenderFirst incorporates ACDI/VOCA’s gender policy and ongoing mainstreaming efforts. It provides tools for practitioners to prioritize interventions and practices that will have the most significant and sustainable impacts on reducing gaps in gender equality in the households, communities and markets where our programs work.

ABOUT GENDERFIRST
GenderFirst is ACDI/VOCA’s signature approach to gender integration, incorporating this essential theme into all aspects of program design, planning, implementation, assessment, and evaluation. Through a carefully developed system of training and resources, these tools support staff at headquarters and in the field to foster gender equity in our programs.

ACDI/VOCA is an international development nonprofit that envisions a world in which all people are empowered to build healthy families and resilient communities. Learn more about ACDI/VOCA at www.acdivoca.org.
Key themes in the GenderFirst approach include reducing gender-based constraints, improving social dynamics, and creating environments where women, men, girls, and boys can thrive. ACDI/VOCA uses a variety of interventions, tools, and methods to ensure that our integrated programs are customized to country and community contexts.

GenderFirst tools and resources are adapted based on program objectives and customized to address the unique needs of each community, considering context-specific social roles, gender and age dynamics, and environmental realities.

The GenderFirst approach includes resources for organization operations as well as all phases of implementation such as:
